

Total Practice Resources SPOTLIGHT

Fifth Edition

December 2, 2008

It's time to Update for 2009!

For those of you that have attended a Nutri-West/Brimhall seminar in 2008, you have heard the importance of having the current year ChiroCode book on hand. This applies for both cash & insurance based practices alike, as correct service coding, accurate diagnosis coding, correct modifiers, adequate documentation, and compliance are mandatory, regardless of practice type. All of this information and much more is included into the ChiroCode DeskBook.

To be released in January, 2009 is the 2009 ChiroCode DeskBook, completed and updated with all 784 changes from the 2008 edition. These 784 changes include added codes, deleted codes and changed definitions. I cannot stress to you enough, the importance of having the most current and up to date information in your practice. At the very least, you should be reviewing the service codes that are typically used in your practice to insure that they are the very best available to describe the services you are rendering. Remember, with CPT coding, you must use the code that accurately defines the service being provided. If you are not doing this than you are not using the right code, thus, subjecting yourself to scrutiny such as records reviews, post payment audits and even refund requests! Doctors and staff...this can even happen to you if you accept cash only but allow your patients to self submit their claims. Now offered by the ChiroCode Institute is free ICD-9 diagnosis and HCPCS searching. To utilize this service visit www.chirocode.com.

Also, as important as it is to be abreast of the most up to date ChiroCode guidelines, it is important to review your fee schedule annually. TPR can generate a zip code analysis which will show the low, middle and high averages of fees for individual services for your practice zip code. This 2009 zip code analysis can be faxed to your office or mailed with your ChiroCode DeskBook. Original cost for this personal zip code analysis is $47 but discounted to $37 through the month of December!

To order your 2009 ChiroCode DeskBook and/or your personal zip code analysis, please fill out the following order form and return via fax or e-mail to Total Practice Resources. Once order has been received, you will receive an e-mail, confirming our receipt of your order. Additionally, once orders ship, a shipping confirmation e-mail will be sent.
